Dr. Eisenhower Pays Visit to Panama Canal

No Trouble Reported After 3-Day Tour Of Central America

BALBOA, Canal Zone (AP)—Milton Eisenhower embarked on a tour of the Panama Canal today with his head full of Panama's proposals for economic aid and a plea for recognition of her sovereignty over the vital waterway.

It was the third day of the friendly and thus far uneventful fact-finding mission on which the President of the United States has sent his brother.

Later he goes on to Honduras, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Puerto Rico, El Salvador and Guatemala, in that order. The zig-zag itinerary was planned in advance and announced only today to foil any violent leftist demonstrations of the type that greeted Vice President Nixon on his South American tour.

If any similar anti-American sentiment exists in Panama, it did not show itself over the weekend. Eisenhower was shielded by strict security measures and whisked around Panama city so rapidly that the inhabitants of the capital hardly were aware of his presence. His daily schedule was not published.

President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. told the visitor that flying the Panamanian flag over the Canal Zone and using Spanish officially inside the 10-mile-wide strip would help bring the people of Panama and the United States closer together.

The United States controls the Canal Zone under an agreement with Panama. The question of mineral rights and Panamanian sovereignty over the zone recently has become a hot political issue which De la Guardia's opposition has been quick to exploit.

The purpose of the trip by Eisenhower, who is president of Johns Hopkins University, is to study the background for a possible revision of U.S. policies toward Latin America.

Burglars Enter 3 County Spots Over Weekend

LISBON — Three breaking and enterings were reported to the county sheriff's office over the weekend.

Super 30 Drive-In Theater snack bar was broken into early this morning, deputies said. A lock was broken off the snack bar door to gain entrance.

The cigarette machine was broken into and undetermined amount of change and cigarettes were taken. The breaking and entering was reported to the sheriff's office at 2:28 a.m.

The theater is located about six miles northwest of East Liverpool near the junction of Routes 30 and 7.

James Ruhl who is building a new home on Route 7, about a mile south of Route 14, reported to sheriff's office early Sunday evening that someone went into his home and took an air compressor and motor, spray gun and hose.

Deputies investigated a breaking and entering Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at the Lisbon Spring and Wire Company on Grant St. Entrance was gained through window in the plant. The burglars also took the moulding off the office door to gain entrance into the office from which they took a gray typewriter, bookkeeping machine and two dozen yellow gloves.

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the burglaries.

Neighbor's Dog Bites Ellsworth Road Child

Stefania Ann Fernengel, 8, Ellsworth Rd., was bitten on her left forearm by a neighbor's dog at 1:04 p.m. Saturday, according to police.

Police said she went to feed her own dog tied in the family barn and tried to chase the neighbor's dog out when it bit her, police said.

She was taken to the Central Clinic for treatment by her mother, Mrs. Walter Fernengel. A city patrolman was detailed to pick up the dog.

Terror Grips Island

Full Curfew Clamped On War-Torn Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A round-the-clock curfew was clamped on Cyprus today to halt mounting communal warfare between Greek and Turkish Cypriots. Terror gripped the island.

The British governor, Sir Hugh Foot, ordered all persons to stay in their homes until further notice except civil servants and essential public workers. It was the most drastic security move since the shootings, bombings, ambushes and riots began on this Mediterranean island three years ago.

A government spokesman said a district security committee would arrange for the townspeople to get food, probably through lifting the curfew at specified times for shopping. He insisted the government did not intend to starve the Cypriots into submission.

The Greeks and Turks here have been fighting each other since June 8, ever since the word got out that the new British plan for the island would not satisfy the Greek majority's desire to unite with Greece and the Turk demands to partition the island to protect their rights.

The Turks took the initial initiative in the communal attacks. But last week EOKA, the Greek underground terrorist organization which had been generally quiet for months, announced it would take the warpath against the Turkish Cypriots.

There was a rising tide of Greek attacks on the Turks and of Turkish retaliation. Three Greeks and five Turks died yesterday, bringing the toll in the past five weeks to 31 Greek Cypriots and 20 Turkish. Four Greek stores were burned out and the Chapel of St. Mamas in Limassol, containing the island's finest wood carvings, was badly damaged by fire.

The attackers ignored an unprecedented joint appeal for peace.

Driver Faces 2 Counts After Car Hits Ped.

A motorist was arrested on two charges after his car went out of control and struck a utility pole on Franklin Ave. west of Ohio Ave. at 4:07 a.m. Sunday.

Police cited Raymond J. Gorbey, 30, of 125 W. Maryland Ave., Sebring, for reckless operation and for having fictitious license plates. Police said he lost control of his vehicle on a curve. The car ran over the curb on the north side of the road and veered across the road into the utility pole.

He is to appear before Mayor Harold Smith July 20.

Tax Inquiry On Goldfine Not Planned Now

Rep. Mills of House Unit Doesn't Rule Out Future Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) said today he has no present plan to start a tax inquiry involving Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving friend of presidential aide Sherman Adams.

Mills heads the Ways and Means Committee, which handles tax questions.

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of the Commerce subcommittee now checking Goldfine's tangled financial affairs, disclosed Sunday he had talked to Mills "with reference to any possible income tax evasion."

Harris said his inquiry is limited to how regulatory agencies carry out the law. His subcommittee has brought out that Goldfine charged items like hotel bills for Adams as business expenses.

Both Goldfine and Adams have pictured Goldfine's favors for Eisenhower's top aide as acts of friendship. But Harris' investigators say if that's true, then Goldfine's gifts could not properly have been deducted as business costs, handle the deductions as a matter of routine.

Mills did not rule out the possibility that his group might go into the tax angle at some future time. However, he said in an interview that "I have no plan to do anything at the moment."

Mills said Harris "hasn't talked to me in an official way" on the question, but had just raised the question briefly without supplying details. Mills said he would have to have more details before he can decide whether he should take up the matter with his committee.

Goldfine himself was due back in Washington today to bune up for his sixth day of testimony before Harris' subcommittee Tuesday.

Just before the real estate and textile millionaire flew home to Boston over the weekend, he blasted his congressional interrogators for what he called their "sneaky, pry and spy" into his affairs.

The subcommittee has threatened to cite him for contempt for not answering, so far, 23 financial questions which Goldfine says have nothing to do with the subcommittee inquiry.

Goldfine's lawyers were reported ready to suggest to Goldfine today that he ask for a vote by the full Commerce Committee on whether the subgroup has stepped out of bounds in its inquiry.

A Goldfine aide said the purpose would be to find out how strong sentiment is for a contempt citation. A subcommittee recommendation for contempt would have to be passed on by the parent committee before it could go to the House for a vote.

Harris, who also heads the full committee, indicated that the group would make short shrift of any Goldfine appeal. He said he

Servicemen's Release By Rebels Anticipated

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP)—Cuban rebels were expected to begin releasing their 29 captive American servicemen this afternoon after holding them more than two weeks.

The evacuation from the rebels' isolated mountain camps may take four days or more.

Word of the anticipated release came from U.S. Consul Park Wollan, who has been dicker with Fidel Castro and his lieutenants in the mountains of Oriente province for the captives' return.

"We are hopeful all will be released," Wollan messaged Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis, commander of the big American naval base on Guantanamo Bay where the prisoners are stationed.

Twenty-eight of the sailors and Marines were kidnapped June 26 on a bus ride through the Cuban countryside and two more were grabbed near the base. One of the latter has been returned.

Ellis said he was not sure how many men would be freed today. The Navy helicopters which have brought back 20 U.S. and Canadian civilians seized by the rebels usually can carry only four passengers on each trip.

The copters have been the only foreign aircraft allowed to fly over rebellious Oriente province by President Fulgencio Batista's government. Sunday a U. S. Marine Flying Boxcar apparently strayed off its prescribed course on a flight from Guantanamo to Opa-Locka, Fla., and was forced down by Cuban army fighter planes.

The lumbering transport landed at Santiago, the capital of Oriente. A U.S. consul there quickly intervened and the plane was on its way again a few hours later.

The U.S. Embassy at Havana minimized the incident as "unimportant." The official Cuban explanation was that a misunderstanding had arisen because the

One person was killed and four others injured in four district accidents investigated by the highway patrol Saturday and Sunday.

David W. Haskell, 68, of 1018 Maplewood Dr., Falls Church, Va., was killed in an accident at the Eastgate Gateway of the Ohio Turnpike Saturday afternoon.

His wife, Ella, 65, was seriously injured in the accident.

Others slightly injured in traffic were:

Joseph Figole, 67, and Anthony Figole, 75, both of Pittsburgh, in an accident Sunday two miles north of Unity.

Martha Strain, 38, of Logan, W. Va., in an accident Sunday near the Youngstown interchange of the turnpike.

Haskell was dead on arrival at South Side Hospital, Youngstown, after the car he was driving struck a concrete abutment at the turnpike entrance at 1:40 p.m. Saturday.

His wife was in serious condition in the hospital with a possible skull fracture, internal injuries, fracture of both legs, and multiple lacerations, turnpike patrolmen reported. The front end of the couple's car was demolished.

The Figoles were treated at the South Side Hospital after their car went out of control and struck a telephone pole two miles north of Unity on Route 170 at 12:15 p.m. Sunday.

Iraq's Revolt Is World Crisis

Jordan Must Come To Its Cousin's Aid

Editor's Note—William L. Ryan has just completed a six-week trip to the Middle East. He visited Iraq, Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Kuwait.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
BELGRADE (AP)—Iraq's revolution can be the beginning of the worst of all crises for the Middle East. It carries a real danger to world peace.

The West had more reason to fear such a development in Iraq than in almost any other place in the Middle East. One way or the other, the events in Baghdad are bound to spill out into other sensitive areas.

Needs Support
If King Hussein of Jordan is to survive the overthrow of his Iraqi cousin Faisal, he will need massive support from the outside. If he gets that support, the Middle East will become a cockpit for a deep world political crisis.

But if the Iraqi revolution is made to stick, its effect also will be felt far beyond Jordan.

The turmoil is likely to reach Kuwait, with its oil riches, and even Saudi Arabia and the rest of the Saudi Peninsula, where the fever for Arab nationalism, always strong, will get new impetus.

What happened in Baghdad appears to have been a coup by desperate men who had been eyeing an opportunity and who feared that opportunity might slip from their hands.

Opportunity Was Afforded
The opportunity was afforded by the Lebanese rebellion. For extremists in Baghdad it must have been a question of now or never—no matter what Gamal Abdel Nasser's own opinion of their plans might have been.

King Faisal Is Overthrown by Pro-Nasser Mob

Crown Prince Beaten To Death by Rebels; Communists Elated

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—A military coup ousted the pro-Western regime today in Iraq, keystone of the Baghdad Pact, and proclaimed a pro-Nasser government.

Baghdad radio said King Faisal had been overthrown and a republic established. An army brigadier was named as leader of the coup.

The broadcast said Crown Prince Abdul Ilah, Faisal's uncle and former regent, was beaten to death by a mob and his body dismembered and burned in the streets.

Reports from Cairo, capital of Nasser's United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria, said Premier Nuri Said, the pro-Western strong man of Iraq, also had been killed by a mob.

Blow to West
The coup if successful, would be a stunning blow to the West. It would knock a key pin—Iraq—out of the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact in the Middle East.

Iraq is one of the Middle East's richest oil countries. The British-controlled Iraqi Petroleum Co., produces most of Iraq's oil. The product goes largely to Western Europe.

There was no direct word of 23-year-old Faisal, who also is chief of state of the new Iraq-Jordan Federation formed Feb. 14, 1958, to counter Nasser's U.A.R., organized two weeks before. The Communist radio in Budapest said he had been arrested by the army.

The Jordan Embassy in London announced, however, that 23-year-old King Hussein of Jordan, Faisal's Hashemite cousin, was undertaking to re-establish public security and order on both sides of the union.

Senate Views Air Traffic Control Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to provide unified control of fast-growing air traffic comes up for action in the Senate today.

Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) said its prompt passage is urgently necessary to save lives and to end what he called the present diffuse and conflicting setup for control of the airways.

The bill would create a federal aviation agency headed by a civilian administrator. He would have full authority to control the use of airspace by both civil and military aircraft and to make and enforce air traffic rules.

Monroney, chief sponsor of the bill, said in a speech prepared for the start of Senate debate that the problems of the air age demand an end to "old divisions of authority and responsibility, old delays by intergovernmental committees."

Monroney, chairman of the Senate Aviation subcommittee, introduced the bill after aerial collisions between military jets and commercial airliners over Las Vegas, Nev., and Brunswick, Md., took a toll of more than 60 lives.

President Eisenhower subsequently sent a message to Congress urging the enactment of similar legislation.

The bill would provide that, without his approval, no federal funds shall be spent for the construction or substantial alteration of civil or military airports or missile sites.

However, military leaders could appeal to the Senate and House Armed Services committees for a decision in case of disagreement with the administrator.

Monroney said this modification of his original bill had not satisfied the military and this issue will have to be settled by the Senate. "This is the only fight I know of," he said, "but it's a big one."

He said he feels that if the military can override the administrator on this point, "they will be able to dominate the whole thing."

90 Per Cent Favor Strike

'Big 3' Auto Workers Resume Contract Talks

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers and the auto industry's Big Three return to the bargaining table today.

Negotiations for new contracts at Ford, General Motors and Chrysler resume in an atmosphere laden with questions.

Chief among them were the continuing effect of the recession and the role to be played by the industry's backlog of unsold 1958 model cars.

Presumably, the UAW and the companies were starting out virtually all over again from the point they stood at in late March when these negotiations first began.

There had been no serious concession from either side up to the time the auto contracts expired during the Memorial Day weekend. The companies have continued operations without contracts.

Today's talks followed upon an extended Fourth of July recess prior to which there had been no signs of progress toward agreements.

Since then, however, the background has undergone some changes.

The UAW has been taking a strike vote at all three companies. It reports its rank and file has favored a strike by a 90 per cent majority if necessary to enforce demands.

The unsold car inventory has been reduced from its $50,000,000 earlier in the year to about 765,000.

In the meantime, the industry has begun its planning for the new 1959 model cars. General Motors already has shut down its Buick factories for the changeover. More plants will close in August and September.

Last spring, when negotiations opened, the UAW was handicapped by recession layoffs of its members and the new car backlog. Its strike weapon was crippled.

In its consideration of any further strike plans the union doubtless will continue to watch the barometers of business conditions.

As negotiations resumed, the UAW apparently still stood on its original demand for a pay boost of 10 cents an hour, improved lay-off pay benefits, improved pensions, and other concessions. The average auto worker pays $2.30 an hour.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Our quandries slow up our making of decisions. A certain amount of confusion in the mind may be an aid to making folk objective. However, uncertainty delays action and postpones adequate preparation for action.

Most of our difficulty in making order out of chaos is that we are too independent. We try to weigh everything in our own human ways. We try to reach strictly human decisions. We fail to unravel the tangle of our minds because we do not call for help on the Powers that is higher than we are.

God alone can unscramble many of our quandries. He alone can help us break out of the tightening circle of confusion which surrounds us. Not only can we hope to obtain help from God, but also we should expect to receive it if we turn to Him in faith, believing that He will give us aid. God will make order out of our human chaos if we give Him a chance.

County Humane Officer's Job Is a Busy One the Year 'Round

Last year was a busy one for Columbiana County Humane Officer Ali Fults, not that most years aren't.

As officer for the Columbiana County Humane Society, Mr. Fults investigates all complaints of mistreatment of animals and consequently handles hundreds of dogs and cats. New homes are found for most of the strays and cast-offs that come his way.

In a job financed by the city and the county, Mr. Fults maintains a pound at his home, 417 Fair Ave. A review of 1957 activities of the Humane Society shows that the officer handled 379 dogs and found new homes for 242. Thirty-seven dogs hit by cars required his attention and cats handled last year totaled 307.

A total of 187 complaints was investigated of dogs not being properly cared for by their owners. One arrest was made. Neglect of other animals prompted 72 other man decisions. We fail to unravel man decisions. We fail to unravel man decisions. We fail to unravel man decisions.

Mr. Fults made 760 phone calls in the discharge of his duties last year, while receiving 1,240 calls. The outstanding case on the Humane Society's books last year was the investigation of the neglect of a herd of cattle on a farm near Lisbon and subsequent jailing and fining of the owner who was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

$12½ Million Collected In State Axle-Mile Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's axle-mile tax brought in more than 12½ million dollars during the fiscal year just ended, the state treasurer says.

The tax is a levy on trucks with three or more axles using Ohio highways. It amounts to between a half and 2½ cents per mile traveled.

Enacted in 1953 after considerable controversy, it was expected by some to bring in more than 19 million dollars annually. To date, it has produced a little more than 52½ million.

A number of aw suits were filed after the tax went into effect and some are pending in federal courts. This ties up an estimated 8 million more dollars.

ROADSIDE RADIO—Sketches above illustrate the functioning of a new electronic aid to motorists. A low power radio transmitter, heard only by cars passing by, broadcasts taped information on highway conditions, service facilities, etc., by means of antenna cables along the road. Developed by General Electronics Laboratories of Cambridge, Mass., the device has been installed in New York's Lincoln Tunnel and George Washington Bridge, and is under study by other cities and states.

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Friedreich's Ataxia Is Family Disease

A letter from Mrs. F. inquires about a peculiar disease known as Friedreich's ataxia. She would like to know something about its onset and progress of the disease and whether it strikes men only, or whether women can be affected too.

This is definitely one of those diseases of a true hereditary nature which is transmitted from generation to generation. It can end does, affect either sex. It is said that 10 per cent of those with the disease have first cousins.

The cause seems to be a true defect in the germ plasma in the family involved. The disease involves the spinal cord in particular, and the defect which causes it may be carried by either parent.

To make matters worse, the defect is sometimes hidden so that the parents may not show identifiable signs of the disease even though it is present in the family.

Friedreich's ataxia usually starts in childhood (between 6 and 15), but sometimes the appearance of symptoms is delayed until after the age of 30. In such cases the victim may know nothing about it until after he or she has married and has had children one or more of whom may suffer from the disease.

The signs of this condition start gradually. An awkwardness in walking and a tendency to stumble and fall easily are characteristic. As the disease progresses the gait becomes more irregular and clumsy. Staggering or reeling from side to side is common.

In advanced cases, irregular movements not subject to the control of the will are frequently seen. The head and neck are likely to make nodding movements or spasms. Spinal curvature is common, and jerky movements of the eyes are also frequent.

The inherited nature of the disease gives the clue to its conquest. If those who are affected or have it in the family, do not have children, the disease will die out. It is never acquired except through defective germ plasma. A treatment has not been developed.

There are some other nervous conditions which are known to be hereditary. Most of them (including Friedreich's ataxia) are fortunately rather rare, and for this reason do not carry names which are familiar except to nerve specialists.

But it is important to recognize them early so that the hereditary tendency can be pointed out to the victim or his or her family and the danger of passing the condition to other generations can be recognized.

Who's Calling the Kettle Black?

The investigation that has set Washington on its ear isn't the first to grow from a small light in a dark place into a roaring prairie fire.

But there is a peculiarity about the way it has been lighting up the sky. It is the first investigation that ever turned into a prairie fire by failing to reveal anything out of the ordinary.

So far, the pots who have been calling the kettles black in the hearings before the House subcommittee on legislative oversight and even in the battle of public relations fought on a battlefield of ice cubes and empty whisky glasses have disclosed nothing surprising.

The only newsworthy thing about the investigation, in fact, has been its surprising newsworthiness, which may be explained by the fact the public relations experts and columnists have loomed at least as large as the people under investigation.

The official purpose of the investigation has been overlooked. The common aim of all parties concerned at this point is to maneuver for the 1958 congressional elections. The integrity of the independent agencies, which is what the subcommittee is supposed to "oversee," can wait until some later date and may never be investigated at all.

Where, then, is the real source of the prairie fire heat that is making Washington so uncomfortable?

The source is the collective conscience of the capital city.

Washington has been reminded with a jolt that practices it had learned to think of as commonplace—concealed microphones, open-handed distribution of lagniappe to public employees, performance of favors for favors received, cloak-and-dagger espionage and counter-espionage—do not look commonplace when exposed to the public. On the contrary, they look tawdry and sinister.

They reflect discredit not only on those who are identified with them directly but on those who condone them.

For example, the real culprit is the concealed microphone chapter of the Goldfine episode was not the subcommittee hiring who was carrying on counter-espionage but the committee majority that kept him on its payroll.

It has become a pertinent question of the times who will call the kettle black in public disclosures of wrong-doing in Washington. The accusation of blackness falls flat when made by badly smudged pots.

If the original aim of the whole investigation was to dirty-up presidential assistant Sherman Adams in time for the congressional elections, the result to date has been to dirty-up everybody concerned, including the dirty-uppers.

They'd Go The Limit

The new international sport of kidnapping Americans bids fair to flourish for a long time. There is no way to stop it.

Oh of course there are those who say they would stop it by doing whatever might be necessary, but they start to hem and haw when asked what might be necessary.

It would never do to drop an atomic bomb, not even one of the small ones. Old-fashioned airplane bombing would be out of the question. So would strafing and fire-bombing.

Backing up a battleship in the harbor and blasting at mainland targets with the 16-inch guns is out of style. Sending the U.S. Marines splashing ashore is no longer done—not even in TV movies.

Diplomats still write tart notes and find ways to pass the word along through secret, confidential channels, but that is of no use without the threat of action. It is too much like conducting collective bargaining without the threat of a strike or a lockout.

Yet, there are these people who say they would stop the kidnapers by doing whatever might be necessary. They say it, moreover, in a manner which indicates that the officials in charge are unwilling to go the limit. Just what is the limit? It would be interesting to know.

Why is it that kids always want for a birthday things that are hardest to find?

Once Over

New Yorkers seem to have a passion for off-beat clubs.

Not content with the everyday variety, they organize or join one which murrors interests from growing plants in bottle tops or bellowing "Annie Laurie" at 3 a. m.

The Procastinators' Club, for instance. Its aim is to curb the number of mental blow-ups generated by a fist, driving age. And it tages its dogma so seriously that club Christmas parties don't usually come off until late April.

The exclusive Circus Saints and Sinners is another one. Celebrities are invited to club dinners and members heckle and harangue the worthy guests to find out how much they can ake. The Stratliners, a collection of outsized New Yorkers, meet regularly to see what can be done about enlarging clothes, shoes, beds and doorways. The Don't Worry Boys Club confines itself to saying and doing just that.

THERE ARE EVEN CLUBS for Manhattan orchid growers, admittedly an unlikely sort of organization in the midst of this city's unbroken sweeps of pavement, brick and stone. Just as unlikely, but equally active, is a group whose sole aim is to probe the mysteries of raising African violets.

Several clubs cater to "fire buffs," a strange breed which delights in what reporters used to call "blazing infernos." Give them flames, hip boots and a rubber raincoat and club room walls will echo to the stories for weeks.

The building superintendents social club draws large groups of janitors who nightly air their gripes about the unreasonable tenant in apartment C 10. And the Hackmen's Club is a spot where seat-wear cab drivers do their relaxing in an upright position.

The 24-Hour Club is for those who don't like the idea of going to bed—small children excluded. The Consolidated Waiters' and Waitresses' Social Club is unmarred by a single tray.

THE SOCIAL ENCOUNTER Institute of Marriage reveals both method and purpose without digging beyond the title. The Master Bartenders Club, where members juggle ice cubes for recreation, is rumored to be the scene of some pretty heady shindigs.

Have You Stopped Etc?

Until they have hounded Sherman Adams out of Washington, or some new sensation has given them a new trail to bay on, the White House correspondents will ask President Eisenhower at every press conference, "Have you changed your mind about not firing Gov. Adams?"

With all due respect to the ladies and gentlemen who will wait with pencils poised for President Eisenhower's answer, we point out that this is a switch on "Have you stopped beating your wife?"

Either way, the answer is subject to complete misunderstanding.

Whether Mr. Adams will continue to work in the White House indefinitely is guesswork. Whether he will resign or be fired is guesswork.

But there is no guesswork about one thing. Whether he resigns, is fired, or dies at his desk, hostile politicians in both parties who think they have put Dwight Eisenhower over a barrel because his presidential assistant accepted gifts from Bernard Goldfine will talk about Sherman Adams as long as there is another inch of political mileage left in his spare frame.

All things considered, he might as well stay on the job, which is where Mr. Eisenhower thinks he belongs.

parks, although Ebbets Field is no longer one of them.

Then there are the Circumnavigators Club, Explorers' Club, Fire Bell Club, Propeller Club, Curtain and Drapery Club, Modern Gents Social Club, Three Pals Social Club which has expanded since original membership and the Roberta Peters Music Club.

And if the foregoing has a disgruntled sort of ring, it's for one reason, and one reason alone. This largest city in the world hasn't got a press club.

A GROUP OF SUBURBAN motorists have been keeping a closely guarded secret for some time now. They'd discovered unknown free parking areas on the west side of Central Park.

The same select clientele had been using the area for weeks. It was getting so they'd have a cheery word of greeting for fellow discoverers-unheard of chumminess among New Yorkers who haven't been formally introduced.

But their plot was laid bare. Seems one of the clientele was a reporter. And he couldn't contain himself any longer. The story was printed in his newspaper. The next day the place was jammed and other members of the conclave are hoping the reporter's next free parking space would cost him $5 per day.

DESPITE DEATHBED orations—this city's night clubs seem to be booming.

And like Paris, only city in the world with more night clubs, some can still afford to run a class system which in many instances has feudal England whipped to a standstill.

These are the stylish big-name places that don't stoop to advertising in the yellow pages. The key to their class system, of course, lies in the seating arrangement. And one of the biggest works this way.

As the visitor comes in the door, he should mentally divide the room like a baseball outfield.

Playing left is the "Palm Beach Set," a catch-all descriptive phrase that's tough to define. In center is chic New York society. And in right field are Mr. and Mrs. America, chairs turned to facilitate hurried glances to left and center.

One reason for dividing the social wheat from the chaff is management's desire to give celebrity patrons as much privacy as possible. No one ever seems to be upset by the system, except perhaps the waiters.

Rumor has it that some of these boys take celebrity spotting tests, using silhouette cards the way the armed services do with aircraft. And any tray-toter that can't identify a Crosby at 5,000 yards has to turn in his pin.

The War the United States Lost

By JERRY KLEIN

Defense Secretary McElroy isn't talking about it and the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs would rather not discuss it, but it is now 100 years since the United States was vanquished in the only war it ever lost. It was in 1858 that the United States bought an end to its war with the Seminoles of Florida—but the Seminoles still, technically, are on the war path.

From 1816 to 1818 and from 1835 to 1842, these Indians fought the U.S. Army to a standstill in some of the bloodiest struggles ever waged on American soil. The final flare-up—the so-called Billy Bowlegs War—came to a halt in 1858 but failed to conquer the proud and stubborn people who still inhabit the Everglades and Big Cypress Swamp of our Sunshine state. The Seminoles remain independent and aloof. They claim, with truth: "We are unconquered; we never surrendered; we signed no peace treaty with the white men." Despite the hardship of their way of life, the tribe also can note that it never accepted any dole, but has insisted on making its own way.

WHEN FEDERAL officials visited the Everglades recently to discuss the Seminoles' land claims, the redmen refused to consider a "philanthropic" offer to give them some acreage. "No," said the Seminoles, "Florida is our ancestral property. No one can donate to use as charity that which already is rightfully ours."

The Indians were so wary they even refused to enter the theater where the discussions were to be conducted but insisted the talks be held in an open field.

According to the National Geographic Society, the cautious Seminoles were remembering their great chief, Osceola and how he was "tricked into capture under a flag of truce" way back in 1837.

Strangely enough, Seminole independence dates from the same year as America's.

In 1775, when the first shots of Revolution were heard from Concord and Lexington, the Seminole tribe was being formed from other tribes in Georgia and Alabama. These Indians—called Seminoles or "separatists"—fled their original homes and entered Florida.

It wasn't long before white men started trying to move them to Oklahoma. The Seminoles, however, were determined to remain in the Cypress swamps, marshes and pine woods they had chosen as their refuge.

THE FIRST FEW MONTHS of fighting in the U.S.-Seminole war, some 3,000 U.S. troops were able to kill four Indians and capture 100 women and children. There were about 1,000 Seminole braves; eventually they were opposed by more than 50,000 U.S. soldiers, sailors and Marines!

The United States finally bought peace in 1858 with cold cash. The price: $6,500 to the Seminole chief, Billy Bowlegs; $1,000 to each of his four lieutenants; $50 to each warrior, and $100 to every woman and child.

Billy and some followers agreed to move west, but some 150 Seminoles remained in Florida to become the nucleus of today's tribe. They live chiefly on a state reserve and three federal reservations but still claim title to Florida.

In fact, to attract attention to the Indian claim, a Seminole named Billy Osceola has begun selling deeds to his share of the acreage "subject to the unconditional surrender of the United States to the Seminoles Indians." Osceola figures his share of the tribe's property is about 35,000 acres—"now occupied by white invaders."

White men continue to encroach on Seminole property in Florida, he asserts. "Only this year, 50 acres more were taken off their 475-acre Dania Reservation for the white man's superhighway to Florida," he says.

"We are a peaceful people, still suspicious of the white man but proud he could not conquer us!" North American Newspaper Alliance

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"Well, well, your first one, eh? I'll bet you're mighty proud—those three right over there are mine!"

Opening the Subject

By TRUMAN TWILL

It was a relief when Inez Robb, my favorite lady columnist, waded into a criticism of profanity a few days ago. I had been waiting for someone to open the subject.

I could not open it, myself, because too many acquaintances would have accused me of being hypocritical if I teed off on a practice in which I am a known offender.

Miss Robb sees no excuse for dirtying up everyday talk with blasphemy, and neither do I, though I do it all the time and have worked all my life in an environment of profane speech.

When I was learning to talk, I spent many happy hours perched on a feed box in a livery stable populated by teamsters, known the world over for blasphemous and scurrilous talk. I was all ears to my mother's consternation upon many occasions.

This is by way of explanation, not excuse. There is no excuse for gross, coarse, indecent, vulgar, low, foul-mouthed, obscene, coarse talk.

The only reason people talk that way is that they do not care how they sound to others, because as far as they are concerned they sound all right to themselves.

In 99 cases out of 100 if they excluded from their talk everything they are not supposed to say they would be unable to say anything.

Some of them—like me—deplore this. They wish they could do something about it. They have tried a thousand times to do something about it. They have promised themselves they will show the world some day they can talk as circumspectly as anyone could wish.

They could do it, too, until they hit their thumb with a hammer.

Then there came the urge for self-expression again—the wild impulse to taint the breeze with a scurrilous opinion of the world and its vicissitudes. That's why teamsters became famous for foul talk; they had a special aggravation. It explains why truck drivers are carrying on the teamsters' reputation. It accounts for the cursing on longshoremen, the swearing of troopers and the screaming of fishwives. These are people with special aggravations.

But it does not excuse profanity. It only explains motives. And it sheds no light on the main problem, which is a scarcity of words, phrases and scripts suitable to the occasion. The old expressions are threadbare.

In more than 1,000 years, nothing has been added to the language opprobrium with any punch to it, except "communist," whose usefulness is confined to capitalists. Among communists, of course, the only useful addition has been "capitalist," preceded by "dirty."

Miss Robb thinks it is time a lot of us washed our mouths with soap. But that would do no good. What the foul-mouths and blasphemers of this world need is new material. The old stuff has been worked to death. The worst thing about it is—and let's be honest—it's boring.

Revolution

I was last in Baghdad a little more than a month ago.

One could feel the tension being generated by the Lebanese rebellion.

Today's developments foreshadow all sorts of chaos. Because of this, it is difficult to believe that Nasser wanted it to happen in just this way and at just this time. He has grown fearful of Soviet influence in the Middle East, and his talks here in Yugoslavia with President Tito have indicated his desire to remain in the middle between the two world blocs.

The Soviet Union surely will attempt to seize every advantage from the developments to apply pressure against Western interests in the Middle East.

Future Bound Up

The future of Europe for years to come is bound up with Mideast oil resources. The United States can get by without those resources, Western Europe cannot.

Where intervention might have been considered foolhardy in a situation like that which developed in Lebanon, Britain and possibly even France cannot regard lightly any threat to the flow of Middle East oil.

The United States, too, may take a second look at the pros and cons of intervention. Events in Iraq are going to give a big boost to the forces of extreme Arab nationalism throughout the entire area.

Wanted Support

Premier Nuri Said, the man whose strength and determination kept the extreme nationalists and the Communists at bay in Iraq, had been desperate to win support from the West to keep the Iraqi-Jordan federation in business. He had been imploring the British to induce the ruling sheik of Kuwait to join him in keeping Jordan from those who wanted to turn her over to the Egyptians and Syrians.

Now the blow apparently has been struck. Inside Kuwait, the pressure on the fabulously wealthy ruling sheiks will be severe. Their position is a dangerous one. The pressure of the Egyptians, Palestinians and Syrians is tremendous. The fever of nationalism has infected many young Kuwaitis, all eager to turn over that incredible little taxpayer's paradise to Nasser.

Nourishes West Europe

Even in Saudi Arabia, whose American-extracted oil helps nourish Western Europe, support for Nasser reaches highly placed persons. Crown Prince Feisal, governing the country now for his brother King Saud, is likely to have great difficulty maintaining the position he recently assumed as a neutral between the two Arab blocs.

If the Iraqi revolution, therefore, consolidates itself, the real payoff crisis in the Middle East is at hand.

jumping fighter pilots had been "unable to determine the aircraft's intentions."

Later the Navy ordered all planes using the Guantanamo airstrip to fly 10 miles off the Oriente coastline.

The rebels' reported decision to start freeing the servicemen appeared to indicate they have given up hope the kidnappings would help them wheedle concessions from the United States.

They had been seeking recognition as genuine belligerents instead of unorganized revolutionaries—and hoped this might lead to a promise that American aid to President Fulgencio Batista's government would be shut off.

MOST HAPPY FELLA—One of many happy farmers in America's boom-crop grain belt is C. R. Berry, who grows wheat near Thompson, Mo., and he's happier than most. That's because his wheat made more than 60 bushels to the acre on a government-measured 38-acre field. Yield for the field, weighed at the Missouri Farmers Association elevator at Mexico, Mo., was 2,284 bushels. Berry and his two sons have 130 acres in wheat this year.

Speaking in a television interview, Harris disclosed that he has signed subpoenas for four new witnesses. He declined to give names. The Goldfine aide said no additional persons in the Goldfine group had been subpoenaed.

New reports were published over the weekend that Adams intends to resign. The Detroit News said Adams plans to quit during the Labor Day weekend. The White House decline comment and Adams could not be reached.

Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton, who appeared to be a favorite among congressional Republicans to succeed Adams if the latter should quit, said, "I don't expect to see Mr. Adams leave." Eisenhower has said he wants his right-hand man to stay on.

She was in a car parked at the berm of the highway which was struck by another car driven by Cora Wolfeale, 75, of Youngstown, the highway patrol reported.

Patrolmen said the Wolfeale woman started up the turnpike entrance ramp, changed her mind and turned left into the Strain vehicle.

Charles Johnson, 29, of 1815 Commerce St., Wellsville, was arrested by patrolmen for passing at an intersection following a two-car crash at 9:15 p.m. Saturday on Rt. 30, three miles north of East Liverpool.

No one was injured in the accident. Patrolmen said Johnson was attempting to pass a northbound car driven by Karen Foreman, 17, of RD 2, East Liverpool, which was making a left turn.

Coup

The Jordan ambassador, a brother of Jordan Premier Samir Rifai, did not say how Hussein proposed to act. But he said the Federation government was in urgent session in Amman, the Jordan capital, and that he was confident the revolt would be put down.

There were no reports to bear out Cairo claims that the revolt had spread to Jordan, and there was no clear-cut indication whether the rebel leaders had established control throughout Iraq.

All that was known for certain was that the Baghdad radio was in the hands of the revolutionary leaders.

Except for the reports of mob action there was no report of fighting.

Greeted With Jubilation

The Baghdad broadcasts were greeted with jubilation in Cairo, Damascus, Moscow and East European satellite capitals.

Here in Beirut, torn for more than two months by a revolt against pro-Western President Camille Chamoun, rebels in the Moslem quarter celebrated with a wild firing of guns.

Communist broadcasts said the coup was carried out because Iraq had planned to give military aid to the Lebanese government.

Baghdad radio named Brig. Gen. Abdel Karim Kassem leader of the coup. He was said to have named a 13-man Cabinet and a three-man Sovereignty Council headed by Lt. Gen. Naguib el Ribaei. The Council, it was announced, would exercise sovereignty until a plebiscite for president can be held.

Lives Safeguarded

Orders from Baghdad radio told the people not to attack foreign embassies or other establishments, and announced that the lives and property of foreigners would be safeguarded.

Brig. Gen. Abdel Gueili Hatem was announced as the new army commander. Iah and Queen Mother Aliya also were announced.

The coup faced Britain and the other members of the Baghdad Pact—Pakistan, Iran and Turkey—with the question of military intervention in Iraq, the only Arab member of the Western-sponsored alliance. The pact does not provide for automatic intervention in the event of attack or internal revolt, but diplomats in London said failure of the West to come to the aid of the legal Iraqi government almost certainly would spell the end of Western influence throughout the Arab world.

U.S. On Spot

The United States was no less on the spot. Although not a member of the Baghdad alliance, it supports it and is a member of its major committees.

Faisal and Nuri had been scheduled to fly to Istanbul today for a meeting of the Asian members of the Baghdad Pact.

As one of their first actions, the coup leaders announced recognition of the U.A.R., which Faisal and Nuri Said previously had refused to extend.

The news of the Iraqi revolt was broadcast briefly this morning from Moscow. A Tass dispatch dated from Damascus reported the Baghdad radio announcements and said: "The royal regime has been overthrown and the Iraq republic has been proclaimed."

Baghdad radio said the commander of the Iraqi army had closed all frontiers and airports until further notice and that no one would be permitted to enter Iraq without special permission from army headquarters.

Overthrow of the 32-year-old Iraqi King and more particularly of Nuri Said, long Iraq's strong man, is the most serious blow to the Western position in the Middle East since Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal.

Iraq was the West's chief bulwark in the area against Nasser's ambition to unite the Arab world under his leadership.

Despite a continual flood of propaganda from Cairo radio and the machinations of Egyptian-Syrian agents, Nuri Said had kept Iraq as the only Arab member of the Western sponsored Baghdad Pact. Faisal and his cousin King Hussein, 23, of neighboring Jordan, in May united their countries in an Arab federation headed by Faisal as a Western-facing counter to the U.A.R.

Weekend Accidents Claim 13 In Ohio

By The Associated Press
A four-car collision near Celina accounted for almost one-third of all lives lost in traffic accidents over the weekend in Ohio.

The Mercer County collision Friday night killed three young women. It was the worst weekend accident in terms of lives lost.

In all, there were 10 traffic fatalities between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Sunday, and three miscellaneous deaths, according to an Associated Press tabulation.

A water-skier was drowned, an 85-foot fall into a shut-down blast furnace and an explosion that blew up the car of a demolition expert were the deaths falling into the miscellaneous category.

The fatalities:

Friday night:

Jane Aann Butts, 19, her sister, Marilyn Jean, 17, both of Greenville, and Caroline Baker, 25, West Manchester (Preble County) in a four-car collision at the junction of U.S. 127 and Ohio 117 about 11 miles north of Celina.

Barry Walton, 43, Dayton, and a passenger in his car, Hattie Pillow, 22, also of Dayton, in a two-car collision in Dayton, Walton died Saturday of injuries.

Saturday:

Albert B. Simones, 26, Kent, a demolition expert, when a blast destroyed his car, which officers said was carrying an undetermined type of explosives, on Ohio 80 about 12 miles north of Carrollton.

Joseph Alexander, 31, Lancaster, found on Ohio 37, about 11 miles north of Lancaster, possibly the victim of a hit-skip driver.

Ezra Eady, 40, Medina, when his car struck a culvert off Ohio 57 a mile south of Erhart (Medina County).

Robert Newell, 25, Dayton, when his car skidded on wet pavement and hit a pole at a Dayton intersection.

David W. Haskell, 64, Falls Church, W. Va., when his car crashed into a concrete abutment at the Eastgate toll plaza of the Ohio Turnpike near Youngstown.

Paul J. Krayner, 44, Lima, drowned when he fell while water skiing and was swept over a dam on the Maumee River at Independence State Park near Defiance.

Stephen L. Vindish, 43, Cleveland, when he fell 85 feet from a platform into a blast furnace which was shut down at Republic Steel Corp.'s plant in Cleveland.

June E. Oberst, 66, Rt. 2, Gibsonburg, when her car collided with a tractor-trailer west of Fremont on U.S. 6.

GOING BACK to college this fall in a burst of color and glory is the cotton blouse. The blouse and the skirt are items indispensable to the coed. Most college girls collect them in much the same way that they amass sweaters and skirts.

We show here two campus-bound blouses designed for the budget-minded coed by Macshore. Blouse with cardigan cut (left) is in foulard print, has tie that can be knotted high or low. The paisley pullover (right) is worn here with long-sleeved shirt. It has the easy fit of a sweater.

This fall, they'll have a chance to pack paisley prints, flower prints, stripes, foulard prints and plaids in their suitcases as they head back to the campus.

Bacon slices may be placed on a rack in a shallow pan and baked in a hot (400 degrees) oven about 15 minutes or until crisp.

If you want scrambled eggs to be fluffy, don't stir them continuously. Lift them from the bottom of the pan with a wide spatula and keep the heat fairly low.

Schwartz, Benning Meet In Ohio Amateur Golf Finals

Stickney Beaten In Semi-Finals

Youngster's Weight Had Dropped to 108

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's 52nd annual amateur golf championship had a new look today. Two youngsters, each in the classic for the first time, battled for the title in the 36-hole finals at Tippecanoe Country Club.

The contestants, survivors of 184 who started play last Tuesday, are Dick Schwartz, 20-year-old Youngstown freshman, at the Citadel, and Robert Benning, 25-year-old employee of a Dayton real estate appraisal firm.

Benning won the Big Ten title at Purdue in 1954. A year later he captured the all-Marine crown at Parris Island, where he was a first lieutenant.

Schwartz has never won anything. He said he may transfer to Ohio University or Youngstown University next fall.

The newcomers reached the finals Sunday as Benning ousted Dr. Harry Duccilli, 34-year-old former bomber pilot from Cincinnati, by 3 and 2 and Schwartz eliminated Don Stickney, 18-year-old Columbus public linker, by 4 and 3 in the 36-hole semifinals.

The tournament lost much of its glamour as Stickney was sidelined. The young public linker's constant captured the hearts of the hundreds of galleries.

Stickney came from nowhere to oust such stalwarts as 1954 finalist Howard Saunders of Gallipolis, medalist and tournament favorite Jackie Nicklaus of Columbus, 1956 and 1957 runnerup Bob Shave Jr. of Cleveland and 23-year-old George Bellino of Youngstown, who is heading out this fall on the professional tour.

But Stickney ran out of gas Sunday. He had dropped from 116 to 108 pounds and as one galleryite put it, "If he loses anymore, it'll have to be bones."

Stickney started after Schwartz as if he intended to win it all. He halved the first hole with a birdie and was three holes ahead at the end of nine. Then his putter lost its magic and he dropped five of the next nine holes to be two down at lunch time.

The exhausted youngster rallied a few times in the afternoon round, chipping into the cup from 60 feet on the 27th hole, canning a birdie putt of 38 feet on the 29th only to have Schwartz put a 15-footer on top of it, and holing out from 28 feet on the 33rd when he was four down with four to play.

In defeat, Stickney drew a greater round of applause than either of the day's victors as the galleryites paid homage to the gritty kid who had slept on the ground, in a station wagon and on a motel floor on successive nights before Tippecanoe club officials discovered his plight and practically adopted him.

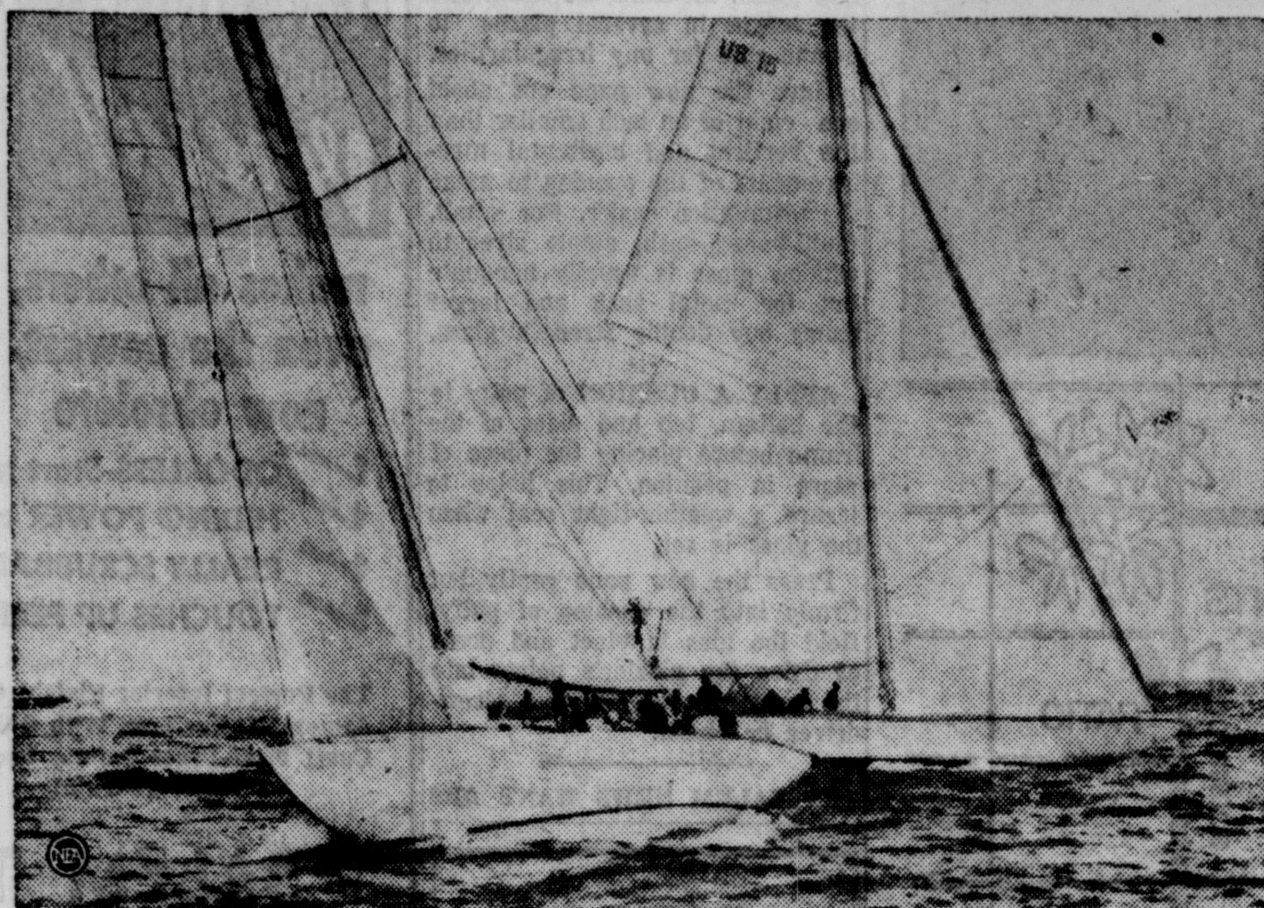

No matter who wins today this probably will be known always as "Stickney's tourney."

Gordon Picks Four Starters For Cleveland

BOSTON (AP) — Convinced Cleveland needs a stronger bullpen, Manager Joe Girard says he's going to shuffle the pitching assignments.

The new order starts tonight when Hoyt Wilhelm, the knuckleball relief artist, makes his second start of the season against the Boston Red Sox and Dave Sisler. Ray Narleski, the Indians' top pitcher with 10 victories, goes to the bullpen along with another hard-throwing right-hander, rookie Gary Bell.

Herb Score will make his first start in 76 days Tuesday night against the Washington Senators. Gordon was encouraged by Score's three scoreless innings pitched against the New York Yankees Saturday, although the southpaw said he wasn't able to throw hard. Cal McLish, the streaking right-hander, notched his fourth straight victory Sunday—all since Gordon became manager—as he limited the Red Sox to six hits while the Tribe snapped a four-game losing spell with a 9-4 triumph. It was his seventh win against five losses.

Giants Defeat Braves 6-5 On Ninth Inning Single by Alou

By The Associated Press
It was a tough fight but the Detroit Tigers finally made the grade and took over second place in the American League, 12½ games behind the runaway New York Yankees.

Detroit suffered a severe blow Sunday while winning two from Baltimore 6-5 and 5-3. Al Kaline, the Tigers' ace right fielder, was hit on the right wrist by a pitched ball and was lost to the club for an indefinite period.

Cleveland knocked Boston down to third place by taking advantage of seven unearned runs while beating the Red Sox 9-4 behind Cal McLish.

Jerry Lumpe's pinch single with the bases full in the 10th gave the Yankees an even break with Chicago. The Yanks took the second game 5-4 after bowing in the first 7-4 when Chicago bombed Don Larsen and Duke Maas in two big innings.

The Los Angeles Dodgers swept two from Cincinnati 3-0 and 3-2 on five home runs and two relief jobs by Clem Labine. Rookie Stan Williams struck out 10 and was pitching a three-hit shutout when Labine replaced him with two on in the ninth inning of the first game. Rookie Bob Gialombardo won the second.

Bill Mazeroski and Bob Skinner accounted for a total of 15 runs as Pittsburgh won a pair from St. Louis 10-8 and 8-6. The defeats dropped the Cards to third place, three games behind San Francisco.

Strong pitching by Johnny Briggs and Dave Hillman and some heavy slugging by Lee Walls, who managed seven straight hits, boosted Chicago to a double victory over Philadelphia, 3-2 and 2-1.

Detroit took over second place in the American League by beating Baltimore twice 6-5 and 5-3. First-place New York split with Chicago. Jerry Lumpe's pinch single with the bases loaded in the 10th gave the Yanks a 5-4 edge in the second game after the Sox roughed up Don Larsen and Duke Maas in two big innings for a 7-4 decision in the opener. Cleveland made the most of seven unearned runs to trim Boston 9-4. Washington took two from Kansas City 2-0 and 4-2.

The Giants fought back to beat Milwaukee when Alou singled off Ernie Johnson with Willie Mays on second and Orlando Cepeda on first. Cepeda had hit his 29th home run in the home eighth. Mike McCormick, who permitted the Braves to tie the score in the ninth, was the winner on Alou's hit.

Carl Furillo and Charley Neal hit home runs behind Williams in the Dodgers' first victory over ex-teammate Don Newcombe. Junior Gilliam, who pignatano and Steve Bilko homered in the second.

Mazeroski had a perfect 4-for-4 with his 10th homer and three runs batted in for the Pirates in the second game. He had six hits, scored four and batted in four for the day. Skinner, who hit a homer in the opener, had five hits, scored three and knocked in four for the day. Gene Baker, Pittsburgh third baseman, ruptured a leg ligament in the first game and probably is lost for the season.

Walls cracked his 19th homer in the third inning of the Cubs' opener against the Phils and followed with six straight singles. Al Dark had four singles in the second game.

Scoring the other two goals for Salem were Lloyd Brunner and Phil Thompson. Rounding out the Cleveland scoring were Herb Green and Dick Knepper with one goal each.

The local club will be on the road the next two weeks with matches at Cleveland July 20 and at Youngstown July 27. The next home game will be with Columbus Aug. 3.

Detroit—Henry Hank, 158½, Detroit, stopped Joe Fusco, 157½, Waterbury, Conn., 3.

Kaline Injured Indefinitely As Detroit Takes Over Second Place

By The Associated Press

Washington took advantage of fine pitching by Camillo Pascual and rookie John Romonosky to sweep two from Kansas City 2-0 and 4-2. Pascual struck out 10 while blanking the A's with six hits. Romonosky, just brought up from Charlotte in the Class A Sally League, allowed only three hits before giving way to a pinch hitter.

San Francisco charged past Milwaukee to take a half-game lead in the National League, beating the Braves 6-5 on a ninth-inning single by Felipe Alou. Bill Mazeroski and Bob Skinner went on a hitting spree to account for a total of 15 runs as Pittsburgh took two from St. Louis 10-8 and 8-6. The Cubs won a pair from the Phils 3-2 and 2-1. Los Angeles swept two from Cincinnati 3-0 and 3-2.

The injury to Kaline took some of the edge off the Tigers' first game decision over Baltimore.

Charlie Beamon settled down after a wild first inning in which he also hit Frank Bolling and walked two others. Beamon didn't allow a hit until the sixth when the roof caved in.

In the second game, the Tigers knocked out Billy O'Dell. The Orioles almost pulled it out in the ninth, loading the bases before Bill Fischer got Dick Williams on a force play.

Lumpe's game-winning hit at New York came after Ryne Duren, Yankee relief pitcher, had bunted safely with two strikes for his first hit of the year. A single by Gil McDougald, a sacrifice and an intentional walk preceded Duren's hit. Duren and Johnny Kucks retired the last 16 Chicago batters in succession in 5 1-3 perfect innings after Bobby Shantz was knocked out. Turk Lown saved the day for Billy Pierce in the first game.

Rookies Carry San Francisco Into 1st Place

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Every day it's something different. These young fellows make mistakes but they're learning fast. These ninth inning finishes are making an old man of me."

San Francisco Giants Manager Bill Rigney—who is 40—had just watched his rookie-loaded crew pull into first place in the National League by edging the world champion Milwaukee Braves 6-5 in the ninth inning Sunday.

Somebody asked Rigney if he thought the team would stay there.

"You just can't tell," he declared. "But I know for sure they are there today."

Sunday the Giants took their second straight game from the Braves, who had held No. 1 position since June 11.

Rookie outfielder Felipe Alou singled in the winning run in the last of the ninth to give the pitching victory to 19-year-old Mike McCormick. Earlier, 20-year-old Orlando Cepeda blasted his third home run in as many days and rookie catcher Bob Schmidt knocked in a run with a sharp two-base hit.

Robertsville Horse Show Set July 27

The Robertsville Saddle Club Inc. will present its fifth annual Horse Show at the Robertsville school grounds July 27 at 12 noon. All children under 12 years of age in Robertsville, Paris and New Franklin schools received complimentary tickets with their report cards and are eligible for a separate door prize from that being awarded the adults.

All children under 12 years old will be admitted free.

Trophies will be given to first and second place horses as well as ribbons for the first five places. Included in the program are Western, Waling Horse, Jumping, Arabian and contest classes.

The Robertsville PTA will once again operate the refreshment stand throughout the show. Proceeds will go toward purchase of playground equipment for the school.

Judges for the show will be Bob Battles of Wadsworth and R. H. Mann of Akron.

The club, a member of the Central Ohio Saddle Club Assn. Inc. and the Tri-State Planning Assn., hopes to exceed the 250 entries of last year's show thus making it the largest show in the history of the club.

Endres Gross, Kresge
Win Class H Contests

Endres-Gross beat Select Dairies 13-3 and Kresge's overpowered Merchant's ending 22-8 in a pair of Class H games played at Memorial Park Sunday.

Select got only two hits off Endres pitching. Thayer, G. Makras, E. Gross and W. Gwatka got two hits each for the winners.

Kresge's scored 11 times in the first inning of their victory. Elliott and Rozeski each had two raps for the victors.

The losers got but one hit and that by Kekel.

the portable power in the market—circular saws, jig saws and special saw attachments for electric drills—that the hand saw had gone out of style.

Well, it hasn't. Tackle a warm-weather chore a good distance from the house and source of power and you'll be glad to have this standard old-fashioned cutting tool in your shop.

Of course, if you're tackling something as big as constructing a garage or porch, rent, buy or borrow a power unit and get someone to show you how to use it.

But for building the kids a sandbox, or when repairing some stairs or even cutting tomato stakes, a hand saw will do all you want it to do and perhaps do it more accurately.

THE BASIC SAW for every handyman is the wood-cutting hand saw. It's generally 26 or 24 inches long (26 inches is preferred). It has a wide, tapered, metal blade, wood handle and differs widely as the number of teeth per inch and their set.

Number of teeth per inch is the method by which saws are classified, generally. Classification is known as the "point" system. Thus a 12-point saw is one that has 12 teeth to the inch.

Rip saws have four-to five-and one-half teeth per inch. They're used for cutting with the grain of the wood, and make a coarse cut.
The crosscut saw, used for cutting across the grain of the wood, has from six to 12 teeth per inch,
and gives a fairly fine cut.

FOR THE HANDY MAN who is just beginning to equip his shop, the first, basic saw is an eight-point crosscut saw. It will give a moderately fine cut and is versatile enough so that it will handle ripping jobs he's likely to encounter.

Deep the saw clean and dry.
Give it a light wiping with machine oil after use, to protect it with an oxidation-resistant polish.

Some authorities suggest that you oil or paraffin the sides of the blade—use oil when sawing green wood, paraffin on lumber that you may want to finish if a particular piece of wood gives you trouble.

After the saw has been in use for some time the "set" of the teeth may need restoring. The set refers to the amount each tooth is bent alternately left and right away from the saw blade.

There are tooth-setting tools in the market that will restore the set. If you lack time or patience to do this exacting job, you'd better have it done professionally.

THIS TRIM SUMMER HOME, 24 by 24 feet in dimensions, is ideal for either the mountains or the seashore. Simple and uncomplicated, its low-cost features include plywood panel construction for quick assembly. It has only 576 square feet, yet it includes a family room with a fireplace, a kitchen, bath and bedrooms for both parents and children. The plan, HA33-G, is by Architect Jerry Gropp, 17238 10th St., NW, Seattle 77, Wash.

equip yourself with one of those utility saws with a pistol-grip handle and interchangeable blades.

It's shaped like a keyhole saw but is smaller in size.

With it you can do much of the work performed by the keyhole or compass saw — interior cutouts, curves—and the hacksaw.

If you figure on doing much metal cutting, adding or replacing plumbing for example, get a regular hacksaw.

For cutting curves and circles, get a coping saw.

You'll find a wide variety of blades for the latter two saws, in both fine and coarse cut.

As a blade becomes dull, replace it.

With the proper saw you'll do any job better. And you won't be dependent on a power source when tackling the smaller jobs.

Mirrors were once more valuable than paintings by master artists. In the 17th Century a large Venetian mirror cost more than 8,000 livres (a livre then was worth about a pound of silver).
In contrast, a rare Raphael painting was then valued at only 3,000 livres.

new putty then will adhere better and will not dry out and crumble.
Use a rule or a steel tape, not a cloth tape, when measuring the dimensions of the opening for the new glass. Measure the width and the height in several places to compensate for any irregularities.

Have the new pane cut about one eighth of an inch smaller than the vertical and horizontal measurements of the opening to make the installation easier. For small, multi-paned sash, single strength window glass is usually adequate but for metal sash and larger panes buy double strength glass.

APPLY A CUSHION of putty to the bottom, top and sides of the frame before placing the piece of glass in position. This helps to insure a weather-tight seal when the glass is set.

Press the new pane gently but firmly into the cushion of putty.
Hold the glass in place and press or drive the glazier's points into the wood with the side of a screwdriver or chisel.

Replacing Broken Window Is Relatively Simple Task

A minor tribulation in the life of the home handyman is the occasional necessity to replace a broken window pane. Don't fret. With proper procedure and a little know-how, the job can be a simple one.

Here's a step by step plan recommended by experts:

First, wear heavy gloves to protect your hands when removing fragments of the broken pane. If some of the fragments are stubborn, tap them out with a hammer.

Use a small chisel or a heavy screwdriver to remove the old putty. If the putty is hard and tough, place the chisel at an angle and tap it with a small hammer but take care not to gouge the sash.

PULL OUT THE GLAZIER'S points with a pair of pliers. In metal sash, remove the clips or unscrew the metal 'beading' or strips. Once the old putty is removed, paint the wooden sash with linseed oil or a light paint. The new putty then will adhere better and will not dry out and crumble.

Use a rule or a steel tape, not a cloth tape, when measuring the dimensions of the opening for the new glass. Measure the width and the height in several places to compensate for any irregularities.

Have the new pane cut about one eighth of an inch smaller than the vertical and horizontal measurements of the opening to make the installation easier. For small, multi-paned sash, single strength window glass is usually adequate but for metal sash and larger panes buy double strength glass.

APPLY A CUSHION of putty to the bottom, top and sides of the frame before placing the piece of glass in position. This helps to insure a weather-tight seal when the glass is set.

Press the new pane gently but firmly into the cushion of putty. Hold the glass in place and press or drive the glazier's points into the wood with the side of a screwdriver or chisel.

Free Unions

By RICHARD M. NIXON

Victor Riesel is in Europe to report new developments in that part of the world. During his absence, his column will be written by prominent personalities in the news. Today's guest is Richard M. Nixon, vice president of the United States.

WASHINGTON
I appreciate the opportunity Victor Riesel has afforded me to report through his column on an important aspect of my South American trip which, because of the understandable interest in the violent demonstrations which occurred, has not been adequately covered in the press.

I have often been asked why I insisted that State Dept. officials arrange meetings with labor union leaders in the countries I visited wherever my schedule would permit.

The answer is that a free trade union movement is one of the strongest bulwarks against Communism.

The proof of the truth of this conclusion is that the growing trade union movement in Latin America is a major target of Communist infiltration.

In the United States we can be grateful for the fact that our trade union leaders were among the first to recognize the insidious character of the international Communist movement and the threat it presented to all free institutions.

Men like George Meany, for example, were never fooled by the popular front tactics of the Communists and they have fought the Communist skillfully and effectively through the years.

THE TRADE UNION movement in Latin America is comparatively small but it is growing fast and in countries where former governing classes are losing their influence the trade union leaders, together with leaders in the universities and public opinion media, form a powerful and sometimes decisive force in determining the makeup of governments and their policies.

The Communists recognize this. That is why they are concentrating their efforts primarily not on government and business officials who may be in power today, but on the union leaders, the university students and the public opinion molders who may be in power tomorrow.

What progress have they made as far as unions are concerned?

We would be deceiving ourselves if we were not to recognize that they have made and are now making serious inroads in the union movement in Latin America.

The Red Labor network, organized under the direction of Vincente Lombardo Toledano, is well-heeled, efficiently organized and ruthlessly aggressive.

Even in those countries where the Communist party is outlawed, Moscow-trained and directed labor leaders are working and planning for the day when they will come to power.

In other countries they openly boast of their Communist affiliation and are waging unceasing warfare on those they realize are their most effective opponents — the free trade union leaders.

But there is another side to this story — an encouraging one from the viewpoint of those who support the cause of freedom. I saw this side firsthand.

In every country I visited, with the exception of Venezuela, I met with free trade union leaders.

THE MEETINGS I attended and the discussions I had with these leaders were without exception always friendly.

That does not mean that they agreed with me on all aspects of United States policy. But in each instance it was a friendly disagreement from which a better understanding of the true attitude of the people of Latin America resulted.

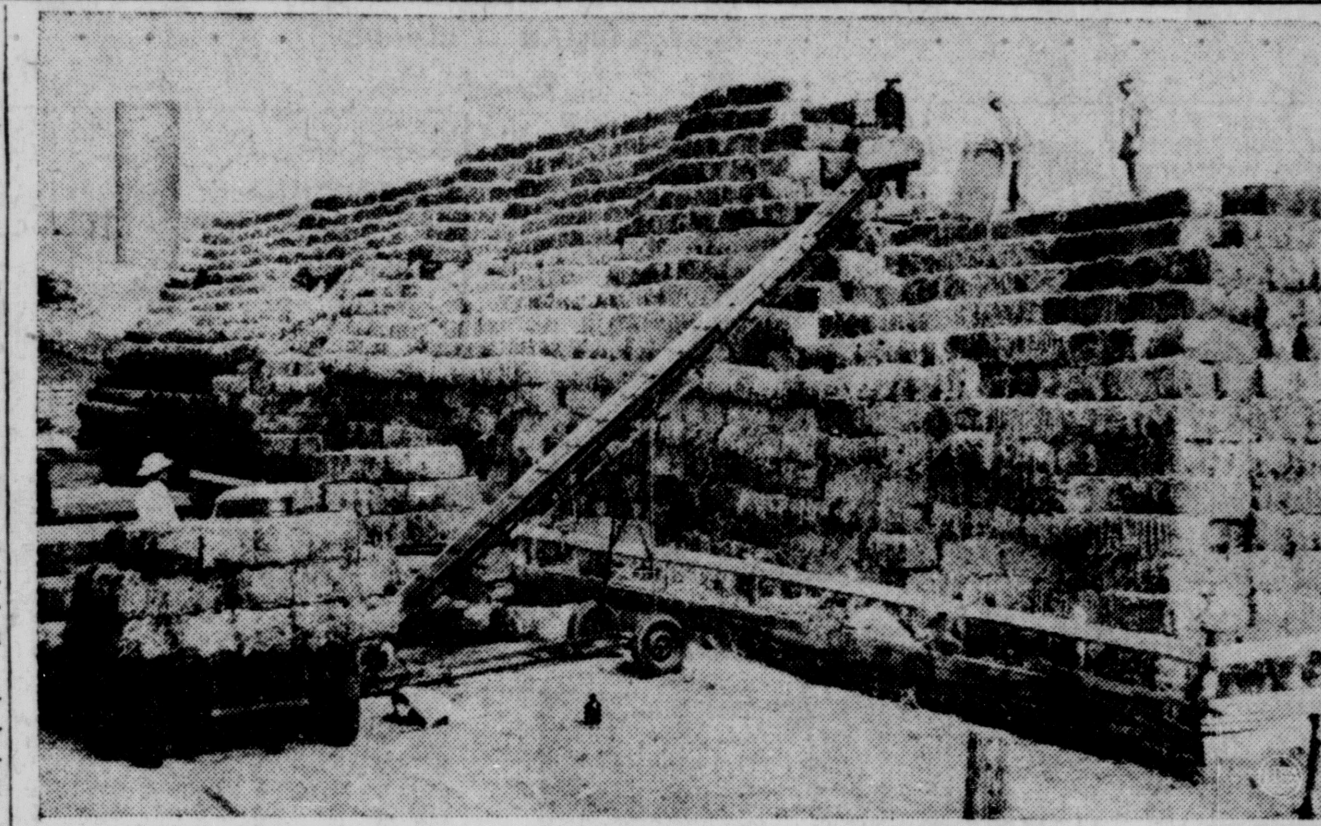

Since I have returned to the United States, I have received scores of letters from these democratic labor leaders deploring the incidents that so grossly misrepresented the true sentiments of the people of South America toward the United States.

To note a few among many, Augusto Malave Villalba, of Venezuela, wrote that the organized workers of his nation emphatically repudiated the incidents that took place.

The Confederation of Labor of Peru rejected the demonstrations as "contrary to their ideals of democracy, freedom and inter-American trade unionism."

It should also be pointed out that in the demonstrations that took place there was no participation whatever by free trade union members.

I found in my conversations with trade union leaders that they re-

WHILE THE SUN SHINES — The old adage about making hay seems to have been followed in the farm of Bob Perry near Salina, Kan. The fort-like construction consists of 7,000 bales of alfalfa. Perry has 11,000 more bales stored in shed. But what it will all add up to in the end definitely ain't hay.

ognize the threat which Communism presents to the true interests of the working people of South America.

They say there is no place in the Americas for the kind of foreign controlled dictatorship which mowed down workers by the thousands in the streets of Budapest.

THEY REALIZE that a Communist government would mean the end of the right to strike and all the other powers that a free trade union must have if it is to survive and grow.

Much of the credit for the successful fight against Communist infiltration of the union movement in Latin America goes to the International Regional Labor Organization (ORIT) with which the free labor organizations are associated.

And I am happy to point out that the American trade union movement through the AFL-CIO is doing a splendid job in Latin America, as well as in other parts of the world in encouraging the development of free trade unions as opposed to Communist unions.

In every country I visited, whenever I talked to union leaders I heard of the fine work of Serafino Romualdi who is Mr. Meany's lieutenant in Latin America and who was named by President Eisenhower as one of the members of the delegation to the inauguration of President Frondizi of Argentina.

Mr. Romualdi is not an ivory tower dreamer. He has seen Communism in the raw. He knows that its tyranny would ruin all that labor has fought for over the decades. His work merits the gratitude of all the people of the United States.

I WOULD NOT suggest that this battle for organized labor in the Americas is won. I believe we should step up our activities in this struggle in several respects.

We should strengthen the labor aache sections in the Embassies in Latin America.

We should increase in quality and quantity the labor union phase of our leader exchange program.

And probably most important of all, through our Information Program and every means possible we must get across to the great masses of people in Latin America that the policies of our government and our enlightened 20th Century private enterprise are dedicated to the ideal of producing here as in the United States, not just a good life for the few but a better life for the many.
